Living Pictures

Strand.

Doris May and Douglas MacLean, recent acquisitions to the ranks of motion picture stars, are "The Life of the Party" out at the big new studio show. The picture is a comedy of the life of a young man in his early twenties. Happiness is their middle name.

High spirits and wholesome fun are the chief ingredients of "What's Your Husband Doing?" the new screen farce in which this delightful pair are featured. It is a picture of a well-known Broadway farce and will be shown at the Strand to the full all week. This film was produced by Thomas H. Ince for Paramount-Artcraft.

Majestic.

Mabel Normand during her picture career has enjoyed almost every possible comic situation. In her newest picture, "Pinto," playing at the Majestic, she has the chance to appreciate the responsibility which attaches to a daughter with five fathers. Her task seems to be centered in overcoming their plans for her upbringing. And she will do it with her love for her, her ways make them "see" things her own way.

Princess.

During the making of "Six Feet Under"—the tremendously dramatic photoplay which the Princess theater is showing today—William Russell fired what he claims to be his five-hundredth shot in pictures. Five years ago, when he began his movie career, Russell decided it would be fun to keep count of the shots his stories compelled him to fire. So he built up the habit of dropping a pebble into a chamois bag every time he pulled the trigger.

Has Shamrocks From Ireland

JOSEPH M. FLYNN.

Many Irishmen are born lucky, but few are lucky enough to receive every year a bunch of the real shamrocks from the "ould sod."

Joe Flynn, Memphis fire prevention commissioner, is one of the lucky ones. Every year he receives a package from Misses Della and Ellen Flynn, of Castlereagh, County Roscommon, containing a bunch of shamrocks, which he gives to a few of his close personal friends.

Mr. Flynn was appointed fire prevention commissioner in February. Since the first of the month he has done a large amount of educational work and has had fire hazards removed in scores of business houses. He is also state fire marshal for Memphis, and his work is done in co-operation with the local and state authorities.

Amusements

Orpheum.

Reminiscences of the past, melodious long haunting the memory of music lovers and theater-goers, wholesome comedy and character, are not over the Orpheum in its new production at the Orpheum this week by Louise Dresser and Jack Gardner, headliners.

Monday nights as well as afternoons nearly enjoyed a clever bill which probably pleased as well as previous offerings sent from the wise men of the East to scotch the savage business men of Memphis.

Louise Dresser is still the same blond beauty as of old; she radiates sunshine and is another of those women who, from Sir Oliver Lodge, the spirit world, or elsewhere, apparently, has had a nip at that old fountain twice de Leon once hunted for.

Paul Decker and company in "And So" and George Austin Moore share honors with the headliners, while a lady who is called "Miss Mildred Green" and her friend husband in spot No. 2 stopped the show Monday with a beautiful violin and vocal act of which special note is made in the program.

George Austin Moore (middle named for the capital of Texas) monologues in black, why no one knows, convulses audiences with his inimitable negro dialect and without the aid of female, mechanical or apparatus, earns well his weekly stipend from Moore, Beck, Meyerfield, et al.

Kharum, Persian pianist seen here before in the three-day shows improvement as a piano manipulator and scores well; Clinton and Clinton sing and jump with avidity as an agent and Percy Oakes and Pamela Delour close with a dance offering rounding out a bill well calculated to please the most exacting.

"Twin Beds."

"Twin Beds," Salisbury Field's and Margaret May's laugh festival, will be the offering at the Lyric three days, starting Monday, March 22. "Twin Beds" was so popular because of its clean, wholesome story, its constant flash of new slang and witty lines, its compact and swiftly moving action and its extraordinary characterizations, all virtues painfully rare in farce. The Signora Monti, Amazonian wife of an erratic tenor, is one of the most amusing stage portraits ever made.

Lois Bolton will again head the special cast, an evenly balanced and skillful company of farceurs, which includes R. M. d'Angelo, Virginia Fairfax, Thomas H. Manning, Kathryn Mills, Thomas J. Evans and Callie Van Vleet, all of them so long associated in the comedy that they are enabled to present a remarkably effective performance.

Loew's Lyceum.

A meeting of the veterans recently was held at the Chamber of Commerce but definite action concerning delegates to the reunion was postponed until Wednesday night's session.

Resolutions thanking the lumbermen and commending their abilities as hosts were adopted unanimously. Several speakers made brief addresses before the club.

Physicians Urged To Be Prompt In Reporting Facts

Letters urging physicians of Memphis and Shelby county to be prompt and complete in their reports of vital statistics to city and county authorities were forwarded to all practitioners Tuesday by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

Establishment of a bureau of vital statistics was not completed until after the Chamber of Commerce had become active in the matter and began to co-operate with the county and city authorities.

W. H. Hayley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stated Tuesday that the first question asked by a prospective resident when he came to make an inspection of Memphis was the birth rate and the death rate. Complete figures on birth and deaths can be used to great advantage in advertising and developing Memphis.
